

Marissa St Ange
International Liberation Officer

I would love the opportunity to work alongside the SU to integrate the international student experience with the home student experience. Being international myself, there are many issues that I understand first hand when it comes to studying abroad and would love the opportunity to provide support for the International community at YSJ.

I would also like to focus on representing the voice of the international students at YSJ. There are over 100 countries represented amongst YSJ staff and students. I would like the opportunity to give every student the chance to share their culture with fellow home students, while also feeling supported and accepted throughout their YSJ University experience.
